

"Our School Needs" is a contest to raise awareness about the serious need that public schools are facing today and to demonstrate Microsoft's commitment to helping schools.

Bing is asking one simple question: What does your school need?

In support of this contest, Bing will give away more than $500,000 in total prize and donation money to support public school classrooms like yours.*

Whether it's a new photography lab, remodeled gymnasium or new books for the library, Bing wants to hear what your school needs.

Bing has made the contest entry fun by giving participants the chance to write an essay, film a video, and submit pictures that best describe what "Our School Needs." It's designed to promote class participation and encourage parents, students, teachers and administrators to come together to support your school entry.

The contest kicks-off on September 16th and the last day to enter is October 22nd. The faster you get your entry posted, the more ratings you can get. You can find complete contest and entry information -- and order a free poster for your class -- at our website: bing.com/ourschoolneeds

Thanks for taking part.

* No purchase necessary. Open only to US residents who are k-12 educators or students enrolled in a k-12 school. Entry deadline is Friday October 22nd, 2010. Click here for full rules. Winning educational institutions must have a donation acceptance program and provide Microsoft a signed donation letter prior to accepting the donation.
