OFF-CAMPUS FACILITATED TOPICS

Play it again Sam

Amanda Johnson and Jason Gruber

ITE 227

Indiana University of Pennsylvania

'The regulars' Most Diner's have them. Those customers that show up like clock work and brighten the day of your wait staff, and the rest in the diner. In our case, these regulars are programs that RHA does each year. Join us at our table in discussing some of our regulars, including Halls of Horror, and the Rocky Horror Picture Show, and share some of your experiences with regulars from your diner. After dining with us, you should be able to make our regulars feel just at home in your diner. LOVE ALL, SERVE ALL!

Putting the icing on your cake: How to make the most of your grad experience

Gudrun Haider

ITE 229

Miami University

A Student Affairs graduate program will prepare you for a future career in Student Affairs, but how do you find the perfect program for you? What should you look for in graduate schools? And even more important, how can you make the most of your graduate experience? How can you take advantage of all of the opportunities offered to you at grad school? And how can you make yourself more marketable for a job in Student Affairs? Come to our presentation, and let's discuss what you can do as you are planning for a career in Student Affairs and find out about some helpful and fun tools and resources to assist you along the way.

Wine and Dine: Getting the Administration to work for you

Michael Gessner

ITE 231

Wright State University

Ever feel like everyone you talk to on campus is a brick wall? Every time you take one step forward, does someone make you take two steps back? Well this program will whip the administration into shape and get your programs complete. For administration to work for you, you have to do something for them first. We all know the famous saying; "you have to spend money to make money" I will help provide inexpensive tips and examples to help you get your program or initiative on its way.

Rookie of the Year

Brandi Veigh

ITE 233

Youngstown State

Are you a first year President? Better yet, are you a first year President with a head full of dreams and ideas, but no clue how to lead your new-found group? Maybe even a group that is only a few years old? At Rookie of the Year, we'll discuss a few of our own situations and what we have learned to do to turn a hair-pulling situation into a million dollar contract! Come and share your experience as a new President, or as someone who was once a Rookie of the Year.

People Do Go Both Ways: Ethical Decision Making

Craig Teide

ACIV 207

Edinboro University of Pennsylvania

Though he doubted it at times, even Dorothy's Scarecrow had the brains to make sound decisions. Ethics and civility are important aspects of building a positive campus climate. But, can ethics be taught? Participants in this program will explore the answer to that question and several others as they're challenged to think about how their beliefs came to be, how their beliefs are put into practice and in which direction their beliefs have them heading.

The Cookie Cart

Casey Palivoda

ACIV 210

Miami University

Cookies!!! Do you know residents feeling a bit overwhelmed or stressed? Why not give them a cookie? This program will give you new, innovative service ideas to give back to your residents, such as a cookie cart. Each leader wants a united community for their residential halls; the best way to get that unity is through service. A sense of welcome is given through acts of service that create a united community. You will learn many service traits you can give back to your residence hall communities in this program. So, come get a cookie and bond with us!
