

Entrée Selection 3

1:30 pm – 2:20 pm

November 11, 2006

FOR ADVISORS

Self-Governance in the Millennial Generation

Chad Trisler

Sondheim 105

University of Pittsburgh

The program will discuss techniques for recruiting, motivating and retaining millennial generation students. The millennial group of students is unlike generations that have come before. Differences between this generation and those that have come before have the potential to shape the course of student self-governance for years to come. In this session, participants will discuss the millennial generation and focus on ways to utilize the unique features of this generation to further the cause of self-governance and recognition.

ART Core I - The Advisor as an Information Resource

Todd Heft

Sondheim 114

Baldwin Wallace College

At this session, advisers discuss the kinds of information they need to have available to assist their students. Included in this is: campus information, departmental issues, state/regional/national RHA organizations, ART history and organization, and general information that students may not need (travel requirements, financial structures, etc).

Multicultural Programming In The Residence Hall

Andrea Manning

Sondheim 113

Ohio University

Understanding the dimensions of multicultural programming in the residence hall. Learn about diversity student development theory and how it applies to programming for minorities. Learn about activities and strategies to use to reach the students and be effective. Finally, get to practice one of the interactive programs suggested to reach the students.

NRHH

Technologically Advancing Your Residence Hall

Ryan Masin

ITE 231

Wright State University

Need a way to communicate with your tech savvy residents? Want to preserve the memorable moments from your residential experience? Look no further. For those technologically challenge, there is a quick and easy way o success. In this session you will learn how to develop a website using iWeb and a photo yearbook using iPhoto which will allow create a whole new way to share information and media with your residents.

Project Linus: What's Your Security Object?

Brittany Ausdenmoore

ITE 233

Wright State University

Do you have a security item? Like Linus and his blanket? Many children who have been through a traumatic experience don't have anything to call their own. The aim of Project Linus. is to give these children something to call their own and provide them with a sense of security and love. Come and see what we do to support Project Linus. and what you can do to help! Sewing skills not needed! Come and see why! I will also be talking about some fundraising ideas that can be used to help with any event or organization.

Fantastic! Amazing!_Marvelous! Bridging the Gap between NRHH and RHA through a Director of Recognition

Sondheim 110

Katie Goldstein, Jenna Blair

Towson University

Most people tip their waiter, but did you ever think about the cook? The cooks prepare the food, the recipes, and overall presentation of the dishes. Just like the waiters and cooks, NRHH and its campus need to work together. NRHH would have nothing to recognize if the campus did not organize events, support its students, or mold emerging leaders. For this, NRHH depends on URG and RHA to bridge the gap of knowledge. Through a Director of Recognition serving on both executive boards, the campus benefits through diverse OTMs and the ability to recognize those previously considered unsung heroes.

LEADERSHIP

The Fine Art of Email Rhetoric

ITE 227

FIRST TIME , REGULAR, PRESIDENTS

Josh Miller and Christy Anthony

Georgetown University

Learn to effectively communicate with administration to better represent student interests (i.e. get what you want). Incorporating certain stylistic and rhetorical strategies, an enthusiastic (yet appropriate) voice, and key word choices in your message will yield great results. Come dissect real student-written and administrator-read emails and produce your own letters to your university's administration. This valuable and practical workshop explores how to market your ideas through the written language. Don't let the sound of rhetoric scare you; rather, learn to use it to your advantage.

Today's Special: Conference Bidding

ITE 241

REGULAR

Ed Fitzpatrick, Kevin Yurasek

CAACURH Regional Board of Directors

It's an experience! Our experienced chefs, No-Frills 2007 Conference Chair and RCC for Bidding, have prepared this full meal with everything! Conference bidding is served over motivation and comes with sides of teamwork and spirit. If you haven't tried it, today is your day! Recipe for Conference Bidding available upon request from your server.

How to Deal with Hostile Customers

Sondheim 103

PRESIDENTS

Barry Barbe Jr, Michael A. Dixon

University of Akron

Have you ever dealt with hostile customers? Did it end well? Were you confident that you could solve their problems? Are you just plain bad when it comes to handling conflict? If any of this applies to you then you can't miss this program! We will teach you the basics of conflict mediation and resolution using tactics that you can apply to your RHA and in your own life. After leaving this program, you should feel empowered to deal with any conflict that comes your way.

The FISH Philosophy

ACIV 150

FIRST TIME , REGULAR, PRESIDENTS

Alana McClelland, Adam Kowalski

Bowling Green State University

Play. Make their Day. Be There. Choose your Attitude. How can you make a difference in your student organization? Participants in this session will learn about the World Famous Pike Fish Market's FISH philosophy and use its four guiding principles to address some of the most common challenges facing our organizations; recruitment/retention, energy and morale, change and stress, attitude and accountability, creativity and motivation, integrity and trust, and teamwork. Come put the fun back in your organization!

Design-a-Diner

Fine Arts 006

REGULAR

Danielle Sauro, Dominique Sauro, Stacy Hagan

The College of New Jersey

Clumsy waitresses, cashiers who can't add, and cooks who can't tell the difference between hot dogs and hamburgers. Come learn teambuilding and communication skills while creating your own diner. You create the menu, you hire the staff, and you call the shots. Will your diner measure up? This will be an unforgettable dining experience!

DIVERSITY

Philadelphia: From Discrimination to Appreciation in our City and in Your Residence Halls

ITE 237

FIRST TIME , REGULAR, PRESIDENTS

Carrie Caine, Chris Heisler , and Scott Baietti

La Salle University

Participants in this program can travel to the city of Philadelphia and learn about the creation of Philadelphia murals, the rules for ordering a cheesesteak, the ideas behind the film Philadelphia with Tom Hanks and Denzel Washington, and what these topics have to do with diversity and discrimination in their own communities. This program will actively engage resident student leaders to challenge the obstacles to diversity around them through fun activities and fresh ideas. We encourage anyone interested in these issues or in visiting the City of Brotherly Love to check out this presentation.

The Hand You're Dealt

ITE 239

FIRST TIME , REGULAR

Rick DiBello, Jen Yue

Slippery Rock University

'Have you ever wished you could "change your stars"? Ever been teased for who you are, or something you couldn't control? Are you holding on to hope that the world could one day become a more accepting place? Our program "deals" with the facts you've been dealt and sometimes chosen while discussing the harsh truths of diversity openly. This is not a program of speculation, segregation, or "name calling". Our goal is to identify and overcome diversity issues, while also presenting ideas to develop accepting environments. And you never know- we may even have fun while doing it!

Name that Ism

ACIV 145

FIRST TIME , REGULAR

Liz Gordon

Wright State University

'Did you know that every time you see a movie or watch television, you may be getting an educational lesson in diversity? "Name that Ism" shows different types of oppression that can be seen in films from today and yesterday. Those participating will then be able to decide which "ism" of oppression is being shown and become more aware of the oppression that is around them.

Diversity Monopoly

ACIV 207

FIRST TIME , REGULAR

Melissa Mazanek

NJIT

GO DIRECTLY TO JAIL. DO NOT PASS GO, DO NOT COLLECT $200. Come and learn about diversity while playing America's favorite game, Monopoly! Participants will play Monopoly with a whole new set of rules and feel what it's like to be treated unfairly. Participants will also be given detailed instructions on how to present this program at his/her home school. So come on out, have some fun, and experience diversity!

Blue Balls: Gender Roles Re-visited

ACIV 210

FIRST TIME , REGULAR

Lisa Jean Birch

Wright State University

Need help relieving blue balls? Come enjoy a fun filled program designed to alleviate the stress between genders. Enjoy the most creative use of "Blue Balls" in our fun and unique relay race. You'll not only participate in this unique program, but also receive information on how to facilitate a similar event at your college.

PERSONAL GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT

A Kid Again: Saturday Morning

ITE 229

FIRST TIME , REGULAR

Jeremy Moore

Wright State University

Ever wanted to be a kid again? Remember the good ole' days of sitting around on Saturday morning and just watching cartoons? Then this program is for you! During this session you will learn how to put on a program for your residents using recorded classic cartoons, cereal, and alot of milk and donuts! If you are looking for a fun and quick social activity then come and see how to bring Saturday morning back in old Skool style!!

Sex Squares

Sondheim 101

REGULAR

Jamie MacDonald, Christine Bergeski

Lock Haven University

How many calories are in a tablespoon of semen? What other mammal has sex for pleasure besides humans? Do I have your attention? Sex Squares is a rendition of the hit television game show Hollywood Squares and sure to give students the sex education they have been looking for! It is a fun interactive program that gets everyone involved, including faculty, staff and students. Come get a private sneak peak and receive the answers to all your questions!

On a Positive Note

ACIV 151

REGULAR

Amy Leopold

University of Toledo

Do you ever feel down and out? Do you feel alone? Well, welcome to the real world where you are not alone!! Sometimes, you just need that little pat on the back and those positive words of reinforcement! Come get those words you need to hear so much and learn new ways to give others those well-deserved pats-on-the-back!