For All the World to See: Visual Culture and the Struggle for Civil Rights
IMAGE AND OBJECT COMPARE AND CONTRAST WORKSHEET

| Name ___________________________ | Class ______________________ | Date ________________ |

For All the World to See is the first exhibition to explore the role of images and objects as driving agents in the civil rights movement.

This accompanying worksheet can be used:
• In conjunction with the lesson plans and activities provided on the For All the World to See website, or
• Along with the Image and Object Analysis Worksheet to study individual items in this exhibition.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>IMAGE ONE</th>
<th>IMAGE TWO</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Title and Subject</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Audience (Who did the author or creator have in mind when she or he created this object?)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Materials (For example line drawing, poster, photograph, food container)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Approximate Date or Period</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Speculate about the impact that each image might have had on the struggle for civil rights Was this a call to action? A negative or positive image? Did it support the movement or the status quo?

IMAGE 1

______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________

IMAGE 2

______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________
For All The World To See was organized by the Center for Art, Design and Visual Culture, University of Maryland, Baltimore County in partnership with the National Museum of African American History and Culture, Smithsonian Institution.

This project has been funded in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities, Trellis Fund, National Endowment for the Arts, St. Paul Travelers Corporation, Communities Foundation of Texas, and Maryland State Arts Council. Additional support has come from CBS News Archives, Ed Sullivan/SOFA Entertainment, Sullmark Corporation, and Sony Pictures Entertainment.

For All the World to See was designated a "We the People" project by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The goal of the "We the People" initiative is to "encourage and strengthen the teaching, study, and understanding of American history and culture through the support of projects that explore significant events and themes in our nation's history and culture and that advance knowledge of the principles that define America."

Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this project do not necessarily reflect those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

FORALLTHEWORLDTOSEE.ORG