Turning Dreams into Realities

Small Business is the driving force in our national economy, employing more than half of all private sector employees and creating 80% of all new jobs. As head of the US Small Business Administration's field operations for the eight southeastern states, Nuby Fowler is the Bush Administration's leading champion for the development and support of small businesses in the region. Hear about her journey from immigrant to presidential appointee and how her experience as a "returning women" student at UMBC helped launch her career. You will also learn how SBA is helping turn business ideas into reality for thousands of entrepreneurs each year.
