All Paths Chosen Can Lead To Success

With each experience, practical as well as academic, growth occurs. Each of us have many positive and negative experiences that impact the decisions we make and how we go about our daily lives. For some, these experiences result in a very risk free, conservative approach and fear of "rocking the boat". For others, it might result in taking the wide open path to becoming an entrepreneur.

Come listen to alumnus Melvin Sharoky, M.D., talk about his journey from UMBC to being an entrepreneur in the pharmaceutical industry. He has been both a physician and healthcare executive. He has a broad range of experiences including designing and conducting Phase I through Phase III clinical trials, developing generics and proprietary products, interacting with government agencies including the FDA, DEA and the Justice Department, and involvement in multiple deal structures both in the U.S. and foreign countries.
