RS#04: Holding the Door Closed
(Artist name illegible) New York Journal, March 31st, 1911. This publication was owned by William Randolph Hearst, one of the founders of sensationalized reporting known as yellow journalism. It was a direct competitor magazine with the likes of New York Times and New York World.